

Jamie Keith Whiteford is the District Scientist at the Ventura County Resource Conservation District. His focus is on agricultural conservation practices, including practices that improve irrigation water use. As part of that focus, Dr. Whiteford has spent years in the field assessing the distribution uniformity of irrigation systems in Ventura and Santa Barbara County. This talk will provide guidance on improving distribution uniformity by discussing common irrigation system issues and their remedies.